WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.— Coal operators representing the great bituminous fields of the Appalachian Highlands, stretching from Tennessee into Pennsylvania, today found themselves completely isolated in their fight against labor provisions of the National Recovery Act.

With hearings on a coal code entering their second day, operators from wide areas in the middle west,
the southwest, the Rockies and the Pacific coast, joined hands with labor to endorse collective bargaining
in mine disputes.

Want Old Privileges.
The fight of the eastern coal barons to reënter ancient feudal privileges centered on their demand for company unions but it embraced many collateral issues. Among these were company stores, company houses for the miners and non-interference by the federal government in operator control over production and prices.

Controlling nearly two-thirds of the entire bituminous output, this strongly entrenched group, which includes the Mellon and Morgan

Free Rubright On Charge Of Wife Murder

District Attorney Negley Orders Release Of Harmony Man Today

WIFE BLOWN UP
IN AUTO JULY 31

Further Charge Of Adultery
Holds Man; Counsel Asks
Reduction Of Bail

(International News Service)
BUTLER, Pa., Aug. 10.—James
C. Rubright, 29, of Harmony, accused of being implicated in the death of his wife, Mrs. Demaris S.
Rubright, 27, in an automobile explosion the morning of July 31, was released from the murder charge
today upon the order of District Attorney Edgar H. Negley.

Rubright remained in Butler county jail, however, held on a second charge of adultery, as county authorities continued their investigation of his estranged wife's death. Evidence against Rubright was ruled insufficient to hold the suspect on the murder charge.

Attorneys A. C. Troutman and J. L. Wilson, counsel for Rubright, today were seeking a reduction from $2,000 to $1,000 bail for their client,
to facilitate his release and temporary freedom.

Mrs. Rubright was blown to bits
when her husband's old coupe exploded on a lonely road near Portersville, as she was enroute from a meeting with him to New Castle,
where she was living.

Married in 1929, the couple had not lived together for three years,
and, according to police, Rubright
had associated with other women
during that time.

Park Thronged As Consistory Picnic Is Held

Enjoyable Outing Is Held
For Members Of Masonic Fraternity Wednesday

MANY EVENTS KEEP
CROWD INTERESTED

With 5,000 people in attendance,
the picnic held at Cascade Park Wednesday under the auspices of the New Castle Consistory and affiliated bodies, which was joined in by the ladies' organizations, provided a delightful outing for the throng present, who came from many sections of western Pennsylvania.

The affair was sponsored by the Legion of Honor, supplanting the annual picnic for that organization and an old-fashioned picnic with the friendly Masonic spirit resulted.

By noon the majority of the crowd
had assembled and the fun began.
As each family entered the park they were asked to register and the kiddies were handed a grab bag, which contained a treat, along with tickets to the park amusements.

Many Events Listed
There was dancing at Rainbow Terrace, which was provided free of charge during the afternoon, and for those who did not care to dance
an athletic program was carried out, under the direction of George Bechtel.

At the same time a golf match was in progress at the Municipal links, only a short distance away from the park, where a blind bogey tournament was staged. This attracted a half hundred golfers.

The Yellow Dogs and Caliphs had their inning, and in a tent just off
the midway the degree of Yellow Dog was administered to those who had not previously shared the delights of this mysterious degree.

The kiddies had their fun, too,
the playgrounds being taken over

Loan Men Banquet; Hear Home Loan Chiefs Speak

Declaring that the new Home Loan bank is "the most misunderstood piece of our nation's financial system—and not a racket by any means," Ralph H. Richards, Pittsburgh, executive vice president of the Pittsburgh branch of the Home Loan system, called upon nearly 80 building and loan representatives from neighboring counties last night to take upon themselves the duty of interpreting the system for the public.

Gathered in The Castleton were officers and directors of 19 different building and loan organizations,
who listened eagerly to the messages of Mr. Richards and his chief counsel, Attorney Robert Cunningham, also of Pittsburgh.

Vice President Richards, introduced by Sam H. McGoun, president of the New Castle Mutual Building & Loan association, chairman for the evening, briefly recalled the way the Home Loan bank originated and pointed out differences between it and the Home Owners Loan corporation. He said that back as far as 1918 there had been legislation drafted to create the Home Loan institution, but that not until 1932 was the bank authorized.

Directing attention for the moment to the bit of criticism leveled at the bank, Mr. Richards quickly asserted that it is something that building and loan, savings banks and insurance companies can well take advantage of. Loans to be

Home Loan Work Gets Under Way In New Castle

Appraiser Wallace Gets His First Home Loan Application Wednesday

LOAN APPLICANTS
ARE INCREASING

Appraiser M. Louis Wallace of the Home Loan Owners corporation,
now functioning here, was handed his first home loan application by the corporation's counsel Wednesday for immediate property appraisals.

Attorney Wilbur J. Baer, local
Home Loan counsel, said Mr.
Wallace would proceed to make thorough property examinations and report back his findings before the next step, the examination of titles,
would be taken.

Applicants Increase
New Castle applicants today were steadily increasing. Mr. Baer reported, but so far the applications ready for the appraiser's attention are few. Important preliminary steps, it was explained, must be taken before Mr. Wallace views the applicant's property.

Correcting the impression that the Home Loan Owners branch handles farm loans as well as city loans, Attorney Baer asserted that another separate governmental organization,
the Federal Land Bank of Baltimore, represented here by Attorney
W. W. Stevenson, its local correspondent, devotes its attention to farm applications. In but special suburban cases the Home Loan branch may act.

Loans must first receive the approval of the state manager of the corporation before they are granted
it is said.

Appointment of local title examiners, Mr. Baer believes, will be made within a short time by state officials of the corporation.

Farm Calls Growing
Attorney W. W. Stevenson, correspondent here for the District No.
2 agent of the Federal Land Bank of Baltimore, reported that requests for loans from farm residents were pouring into his office today. Col.
Stevenson is authorized to apply for loans for worthy farmers from the government-established land bank.
Col. Stevenson is also secretary of the Lawrence County National Farm Loan association.

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Aug. 10.—A mother turned away from her daughter in county jail here today, refusing to hear the girl's tearful denial that she had come between her mother and her step-father.

The mother, Mrs. Meta Miller, 47, is being held for killing the stepfather, Fred Miller, 61, while he sat
at the breakfast table yesterday.
Police said she admitted killing him
because he "ran around with women."

Gertrude Wright, 19, the daughter, went to the jail today to offer
to help her mother.

Shuns Daughter
Mrs. Miller, brought into the jail reception room, glanced at Gertrude,
walked past her and sat down.

Gertrude ran to her side, sought
to embrace her and cried:
"Mother, you know I didn't do anything like that."

Mrs. Miller sat silent, her face turned away from her daughter.

Crying, Gertrude left after convincing homicide detectives it was not she but over other women that her mother and step-father had quarreled just before he was shot.

But the three younger children of Mrs. Miller and her dead husband told detectives their father showered favors on his step-daughter.

Twelve-year-old William Miller explained:
"Our father didn't treat us very well. We didn't have enough to eat.
He liked Gertrude best."

nenced a heroic act on South Mill street yesterday that deserved a medal, but will get a few words in this column. An automobile was whizzing along south at a fair rate of speed. A little two-year-old gave way to the irresistible impulse to scamper across the street. The mother, with lightning speed, scooped the youngster from the tracks of the oncoming car, thus preventing an accident that may have resulted in serious injury or death.

Rains during the past few days have forced the Shenango river up almost a half foot, the stage at the water works being almost four feet today.

Some days ago we mentioned seeing a car passing about the streets of the city that bore a South Carolina license plate. We have just discovered that the car was that of Paul J. Lewis, who is affiliated with a government hospital in Columbia, S. C., and was here on a visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Lewis of Winter avenue.

Today's downpour of rain will prove welcome to the farmers and gardeners of Lawrence county and the city. The gardens which were planted here by the unemployed were much in need of rain according to garden committeemen.

MOTORIST DELAYS

HIGHLAND CAR

Street car patrons on the Highland avenue street car line were delayed 20 minutes yesterday afternoon on their way home, by the apparent inattention and neglect of a woman motorist, who had parked her car on the east side of North Mill street, just north of the switch of the double tracks, in such a way as to make it impossible for the street car to proceed.

The steering apparatus was locked and the machine resisted all efforts to move it. A wrecker was called and was on its way when the driver of the car appeared on the scene and drove it away, but not until she had been handed an invitation to report to the police station. At the police station, the lady driver claimed that her car had been moved by another motorist in getting a car out from its parking place.

The committee expressed its deep appreciation for the excellent spirit of co-operation received from Park Manager Chris Coulthard and the park committee.

During the course of the afternoon and evening those who cared got a glimpse into the future at a fortune telling booth. Prince Asa Haza, who in common everyday life is more popularly known as Ray F. Hall, assisted by Betty Matthews, read the horoscopes of the crowd, while in another tent a short distance away Mrs. Beatrice Forbes, Mrs. Laura French, Mrs. Joe Lind, Mrs. Ira Holsinger and the Misses Elizabeth Vance and Ida Smith read the palms of the credulous public.

From the success of yesterday's affair it is likely that the picnic will become an annual affair for all members of the Masonic fraternity and their friends.

public are not made direct, but through a building and loan or other member of any regional office of the bank.

"So far 1,700 building and loans have joined the Home Loan voluntarily through the 12 regional district banks," said the Home Loan officer, "and to these associations we have loaned out approximately $60,000,000." He pointed out that this money will go to finance home repairs, rehabilitation and create new home building work.

Describing the Home Loan as a system serving building, and loans, operating similar to the Federal Reserve system which serves the banks, Mr. Richards detailed the manner in which loan applications can be made and assured all that it will tend to make strong associations stronger, create new associations and eliminate, no doubt, any institution "which should have gone out of business five years ago, if there are any."

Concluding his talk, the Pittsburgher declared that in his opinion the "Home Loan is destined to grow and to occupy a larger place in America's financial field."

Before Mr. Richards spoke, Attorney Cunningham, counsel for the branch, enumerated the objectives of the new Pennsylvania Building & Loan code and recited why it is of great value.

Attorney Homer Swaney, Beaver Falls, first vice president of the Pennsylvania Building & Loan League, arrived late for the meeting but brought state greetings before it adjourned.

The banquet audience also heard Attorney Wilbur J. Baer, counsel for the Home Owners Loan Corporation here, a guest at the dinner. Others who spoke were George Sweeney, Beaver Valley contact man for the Home Loan bank, and Harry R. Smith, Ellwood City, secretary of the Ellwood City Building & Loan association. The latter spoke for the United States Building & Loan League.

A movement to organize the building and loan delegations present last night into a North West Pennsylvania district group was launched as secretaries voiced their approval of it. Actual organization plans are to be drawn later.

Featuring the dinner-meeting was the roll call of loan associations, taken by Norman E. Clark, secretary of the New Castle Mutual here and prime mover of last night's rally, which showed the following associations represented:

Citizens Savings & Loan, Oil City; Home Protective Savings & Loan, New Brighton; Valley Savings & Loan, Sharon; The Phillipsburg Building & Loan, Monaca; Sharon Building & Loan, Sharon; Union Building & Loan, West Bridgewater; Meadville Building & Loan, Meadville; Ellwood City Building & Loan, Ellwood City; Peoples Building & Loan, Beaver Falls; Workingmen's Building & Loan, Butler; Standard Building & Loan, Butler; Midland Savings & Loan, Midland; Camar Building & Loan, Monaca; and the Pennsylvania Savings Fund, Dollar Savings association, Peoples Mutual Building & Loan, State Capital Building & Loan, Equitable Building & Loan and New Castle Mutual Building & Loan, all of New Castle.

Astronomers To View Meteors In Blazing Action

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—Astronomers will turn their eyes to the skies tonight for the annual shower of perseid meteors. Visible at the rate of 10 or 15 an hour, these tiny, blazing chips will fly across the sky beginning at midnight and reaching their greatest profusion between midnight Friday and dawn Saturday. At that time, as many as 30 "shooting stars" an hour will be visible at a 60-mile altitude, astronomers said.

Although the meteors blaze intensely, not one has been recorded as ever striking the earth.

ban president would fly to Cuba and set up at eastern point of the island a provisional government.

Menocal, these sources said, relied on the withdrawal of United States recognition of the Machado government and benevolent tolerance of any provisional government that might be established.

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—Armed intervention in Cuba by United States battleships and marines was forecast today by Senator Key Pittman of Nevada, chairman of the Senate foreign relations committee, unless President Roosevelt decides to ignore the Platt amendments.

Senator Pittman's statement, made on his arrival here aboard the liner Manhattan from London, where he was a delegate to the world economic conference.

"The United States," he said, "will have to intervene if we carry out the policies laid down in the Platt amendment. Intervention by other governments will come if the amendment's policies are denounced."

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Aug. 10.—A program projected by President Roosevelt and designed to bring an end to the strife in Cuba was on the way to the island Republic today, while the executive anxiously waited here in his family home for reports on its reception.

Offers Aid

Mr. Roosevelt was in doubt as to how President Machado of Cuba would receive his suggestions, put forward in the most friendly and informal fashion, but stood ready to offer all possible aid to Cuba in putting through his proposed program. He spent two hours outlining the plan to Cintas and afterwards there was issued from the temporary White House here the following statement:

"The President and Ambassador Cintas discussed the Cuban situation especially the economic aspects. They feel that the problems of starvation and depression are of such immediate importance that every political problem should be met in the most patriotic spirit in order to improve conditions at the earliest possible moment."

"The ambassador is communicating with his government."

If the president has in any way suggested that President Machado of Cuba step out of office for a temporary leave of absence from his post, there has been no authentic information to this effect here. On the other hand, the president made it clear in his most recent press conference that he would not consent to such a pass this country was virtually ready for armed intervention in Cuba.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—With the British and Spanish diplomatic representatives protesting direct to Ambassador Sumner Welles against the lack of law and order in Cuba, and with receipts of word that an actual reign of terror exists in Havana, the position of this government towards its troublesome Latin neighbor today rapidly approached a climax.

Despite the forces of circumstances which appeared to be pushing the United States toward the brink of armed intervention, the administration is still strongly averse to this drastic step.

Officials still maintained intervention was not contemplated and would be considered only as a last resort.

Difficult Situations

The situation confronting the government was described as both delicate and difficult.

Unimpeachable reports received here stated that in order to break the general strike of workers and force stores which closed voluntarily in sympathy with the strikers to open up, police in motor cars were dashing through the streets of Havana with machine guns which they were firing indiscriminately at all closed stores even in such prominent thoroughfares as the Prado.

The situation in Havana is becoming increasingly tense, the reports added. The poorer classes practically have been without food for twenty four hours and it is feared they will attack stores in order to obtain food. Furthermore, the reports said, the transportation unions have voted in favor of continuing the general strike, which is becoming intensified throughout the island.

IT HAS "TEETH"

RUMORS of arbitrary action by the federal government in connection with enforcement of the national industrial recovery act already are beginning to appear in various places. They include the sudden closing of plants or threats to close them because of failure of the managing authorities to comply with the provisions of the act.

It is well for the public to have a correct understanding of this emergency industrial law which was enacted to remain in effect until June 1, 1934. The act has real teeth in it, both jail sentences and fines being included among the penalties which may be inflicted on its violators.

The blanket code recently has claimed chief attention in connection with the placing of the law in effect. This, it should be remembered, is temporary and voluntary. The act calls for the formulation of codes by the different industries. Because of the time required for this to be done, however, the president proposed the adoption of a blanket code which would remain effective until the individual codes had been approved. Formulation of the latter, meanwhile, is proceeding.

It is in connection with enforcement of the individual codes that the punitive provisions of the act apply. The carrying out of these does not rest on voluntary cooperation. After a trade association code has been submitted and approved by the government, members of the association become subject to the penalties provided in the industrial act for violation of codes affecting interstate or foreign commerce. An alleged violator may be haled into federal court, and, if convicted, he is subject to a fine of $500 for each offense, with each day that such violation continues being deemed a separate offense.

Another weapon is provided the government through the licensing provision of the act. Should any activities destructive to the emergency law's policy develop in any trade or industry, authority is given the president to require every person or concern engaged in that particular line to cease operating or obtain a license from the national recovery administration. The penalty for failure to do this is $500 fine or six months' imprisonment or both, each day of continued violation here, likewise, being deemed a separate offense.

Whatever may be the individual or popular feeling toward the act as it now stands, it is the law. Compliance with it becomes the duty of all whom it may affect. The cooperation being given the government by industry in carrying it out is a pleasing development. It is not a voluntary movement, though, as individuals or corporations who may seek to violate it will find out.

WAIT A WHILE

Now comes a plea that the federal government, as part of its recovery program, extend a helping hand to education.

It is made by Dean William F. Russell of Teachers' College, Columbia university.

Dean Russell, speaking before the institute on the Administration of Public Education, advocated that part of the $3,000,000,000 in the public works fund be allotted to public schools, state universities and other phases of the program of general education. He urged that the government "make grants for this purpose at once in almost any form."

He held public education to be "of first rank and of first importance" among the public works on the program of direct federal subsidy.

Few will disagree with the dean on the importance of public education. There are other considerations, however, to be taken into account in connection with his proposal of direct federal aid to schools. Subsidization of education by the federal government would invite dangers that might prove more disastrous than the conditions it sought to cure. The states have surrendered many of their original functions to the federal government but public education is one to which they have wisely clung.

There is no question but that educational costs generally were far too high before the depression's pinch was begun to be felt. Like most institutions supported by public funds, the schools had been invaded by extravagance. Elimination of some of the unessentials, cutting of salaries and consolidations offered a way out. Readjustments along these lines are being made. If wisely done, they promise to benefit rather than to damage public education.

There, of course, is the possibility that there might develop an emergency of such force as to make necessary the extending of federal assistance. This point, however, has not been reached nor is it observable on the horizon.

Unless and until such a crisis is reached, the matter should be left to the states to handle in their own way. The federal government has enough on its hands already to keep itself busy for quite a while at an eventual cost to the public which none now can estimate.

ROOM ENOUGH, TIME ENOUGH

It's a small world, but it's big enough. It's a short life, but it's long enough for a rich variety of living. Time flies, but we can ride far enough on its back.

It's a small world, but you can wander far on its broad, brown, green, gray, white surface. . . . See the fields of New England, the rolling Great Lakes, the rolling prairies of the middle west, the deserts of the southwest, the crags of the Rockies, the fields, plantations, and bayous of the south, the sunshine and poppies of the west, the green and white lands of the northeast. See the snows of the north, the jungles of the equator, the massive, liquid wastes of the restless oceans of the world. . . . With your physical eyes or your dreaming imagination, travel to every land under the full moon or the yellow sun. . . . It's not so small as one sometimes thinks.

And though life slips swiftly beneath your feet, there's time enough for growth and seeing and becoming. . . . Time for being born, time for growing, time for learning a few things, time for making up your mind, time to be a failure, time to be a good success. . . . Time to touch ignorance and wisdom, doubt and faith, fear and courage, hatred and love, and be shaped and patterned and beaten and drawn into the human being that other people see and think they know. . . . There's time enough.

We complain about life. Life, if it would speak to us, might well complain of us.

We complain of the shortness of living, but Time might retort that we do too little now with the hours he has allotted.

We are cramped by the world, but its vastness rebukes our small imaginations.

We are bored by our lives, and the immense variety of nature shames our peevishness into silence. We talk of failure, but the only failure is within ourselves.

We speak of pessimism, and the only defeat is in the human heart. Why do we fuss and fume?

SUMMER EXERCISE

Just because it may not be financially possible for you to pursue your favorite sport this summer, don't become a squatter, and do nothing in the way of exercise.

You ought to be sensible enough to realize you need physical work. You must not let your muscles get soft.

It may be that you need the exercise a vegetable garden would produce.

In past years you have hired the help needed to keep up your place. Why not do the work yourself this year and gain the health from outdoor exercise right there at home on your own land?

To be sure you won't have your old cronies with you.

The social part of your preferred sport is going to be missed. But you can get the physical well being that the fresh air affords, and possibly entertain a bit with a dinner occasionally where you serve your own produce, and that is an achievement.

Don't spend your leisure in a stuffy room where others are smoking in an effort to appear sociable—not in summer time.

That poker game may not be so bad in winter time but in summer it is a crime to waste time over the cards when there is fresh or salt water bathing or even long walks in the woods or the sunshine.

Just Folks

By EDGAR A. GUEST

Are we wrong in all our teaching That triumph lies in summit reaching; That all enjoyment earthly lies In being proud and shrewd and wise; That to be rich is to be glad Since little else from life is had?

Should we not pen a different story Concerning human peace and glory? Should we not to our children tell That true success is serving well; That all life's happiness depends Less on wealth and more on friends?

Should we not make a little clearer The fact that happiness lies nearer Than youth may early guess or know For all of us on earth below: That countless pleasures close at hand Are strewn at every one's command?

Should we not teach them less to grumble At modest means and dwelling humble; That fellowship with woods and seas Possesses endless power to please; That doing well and staying true Will gladden them a lifetime through?

Increase In Federal Trade Stirs Debate As To Policies

Tariff Supporters And Opponents Find Material For Discussion, While Currency And Domestic Demands Receive Attention

Official reports, showing increased foreign trade for the month of June, are made the basis of discussions as to the probable cause. Tariff supporters and opponents engage in a debate, while it is a matter of interest that the increase have developed in spite of seasonal tendencies and currency quotations abroad. The larger totals are received with general satisfaction.

It is pointed out by the NEW YORK TIMES that "marked improvement is shown for the second consecutive month, in a season of the year when there is usually a decline." The TIMES states that "expansion of business activity created a fresh demand for raw materials," and that "large gains were made in imports of unmanufactured wool, raw silk, hides and skins, pulpwood, ferro-manganese, aluminum, tin and nickel." The TIMES believes that "further gains may be achieved if, through reciprocal treaties, the United States helps to remove some of the barriers put in the path of international trade during the depression." That paper also comments: "The record of the last two months is sharply at odds with the prediction that a depreciated dollar would greatly stimulate our exports and at the same time curtail imports. It was argued by those who held this view that a cheap currency would enable us to undersell competitors in foreign markets, while making it more difficult for Americans to buy abroad. But imports have been increasing rapidly, with the expanding needs of business, while exports have advanced more slowly—partly because the supposed advantages of a cheaper dollar have been offset abroad by quotas and compensating tariffs, specifically imposed by many countries on imports from nations with depreciated currency. Other countries 'off gold' have shared this experience. British exports for the first six months of 1933 are 12,000,000 pounds below those of the same period last year, despite the high hopes originally entertained of trade advantages resulting from depreciated sterling."

It is a "heartening increase," according to the BALTIMORE EVENING SUN, which adds that this verdict must be qualified, for it was "heartening only to those who look upon a flourishing foreign trade as a sign of economic health." The SUN holds that those who do not find satisfaction in this development make up a large group, and records that "the wheels are already beginning to turn and the tariff commission has prepared a report showing just what products were imported in increasing quantities."

It suspects that "we will have higher tariffs on those commodities before long."

The report also inspires an argument on the tariff question from the SPRINGFIELD (MASS.) UNION, which finds that "the theory of present tariff is based on the high tariffs or other restrictions on foreign trade is being roughly handled by economic and trade developments in these days of reviving business."

The UNION remarks that "as a matter of fact, all through the depression the reduction in our foreign commerce has been less, relatively, than in our domestic commerce, and that "it appears that foreign commerce is coming back along with our domestic trade, although there has been no change in tariffs or in other conditions affecting foreign trade." The UNION concludes: "There need be no concern over our foreign trade if our domestic trade can be brought back to normal conditions. The importation of certain raw materials is essential to our manufacture for domestic (Continued On Page Five)

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

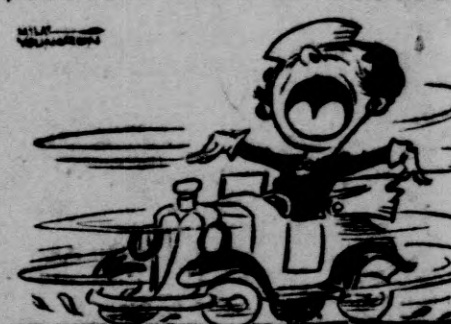

NO SHIRKER

The immortal expression of General William T. Sherman, that "war is hell" was made in an impromptu speech at Columbus, Ohio, August 11, 1880, when Sherman, who was present at a G. A. R. convention addressed by President Hayes, was called to the speakers' stand.

"There is many a boy here today who looks on war as all glory," Sherman declared, "but boys it is all hell. You can hear this warning voice to generations yet to come. I look upon war with horror, but if it has to come, I am here."

Safe Driving "Hint"

By The National Safety Council

QUIT YOUR SKIDDING

There is no more helpless sensation than the one you get when your car goes into a skid on a slippery pavement. Many a driver has skidded right into the hospital or the graveyard.

To get out of a skid release the brakes, if you have applied them, and turn the front wheels in the direction in which the rear wheels are sliding. And be mighty quick about it.

To prevent skidding, don't apply the brakes with strong continuous pressure but slow down the car gradually by alternately applying and releasing the brakes until you have killed most of the momentum.

Good tires with worn treads will help a great deal to prevent skidding. So will good chains. These should always be put on both rear wheels—never on one only.

Known as London Prize Ring Rules, they remained the governing laws of the sport for almost 150 years. (The rules were Sullivan-Kilrain 75-round encounter in July, 1889.) A round ended whenever a fighter fell, was thrown or knocked to the ground, after which he was allowed 30 seconds' rest. Explains How NRA Blue Eagles Can Be Procured

Those Who Feel That Compliance Would Work
Any Hardship
Can Appeal

POSTMASTER IS ISSUING EMBLEMS

Information coming to the National Recovery administration indicates that in certain sections of the country, trade associations, which are being established overnight, in their campaign for membership are improperly informing prospective members that they will approve their application for a stay under the "unavoidable hardship" clause, thus enabling members to obtain and display the blue eagle pending final decision in Washington.

This, together with the fact that the methods of procedure are still not clear in the minds of many, has prompted the administration heads to outline more clearly the way in which the blue eagle can be secured. The blue eagle, signifying compliance with the president's code, can be obtained only in the following way, Thomas H. Hammond, executive director of the president's re-employment program, states:

Methods Outlined.
A—By signing the president's re-employment agreement and mailing it to the district office of the Department of Commerce at Philadelphia; putting its provisions into operation; signing the certificate of compliance, and handing it to your local postmaster, who will post your name on the honor roll and deliver samples of the N. R. A. blue eagle.

B—If a specific code has been submitted by your industry and its wage and hour provisions are accepted by the deputy administrator, by signing the certificate of compliance with this endorsement:

"To the extent of N. R. A. consent

as announced, we have complied with the president's agreement by conforming with the substituted provisions of the code submitted for the trade or industry." Present this to your postmaster, who will post your name on the honor roll and deliver the N. R. A. blue eagle.

C—Sign the president's agreement. Mail it to the district office of the Department of Commerce. If you find its provisions are mostly impossible, then prepare a petition to the N. R. A. asking for a stay or postponement of those provisions, which would produce an "unavoidable hardship". Submit this petition to the trade association of your industry, or if none, to your local Chamber of Commerce, or such other commercial organization as can properly vouch for the facts. If officially accepted as one of the above, add the following to the face of your certificate:

"Except for those interim provisions regarding wages and hours which have been approved by the trade association."

The postmaster will authorize you to use the N. R. A. blue eagle. This last procedure may take some time, and is, of course, subject to reversal when your petition is reviewed by the N. R. A.

Retail Stores Given Warning

General Johnson Warns Retail Stores About Curtailment Of Working Hours

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—The president's reemployment drive proceeded on all fronts Wednesday with Hugh S. Johnson, national recovery administrator, warning the nation-wide retail stores that any curtailment of store hours which would defeat the employment aims of the administration will result in withdrawal of the "Blue Eagle."

"When any employer signs this agreement with their president," Johnson said, referring to the retail store agreement recently concluded, "no one could conceivably set about staggering employees' hours, enforcing rest periods, and increasing lunch time without pay, or either directly or indirectly conspire to defeat the very purpose of the agreement by materially shortening the number of hours which the stores had customarily stayed open."

Johnson's statement was prompted by a widespread misunderstanding regarding the number of hours retail stores should remain open.

The retail stores agreement promised that the hours a store would remain open would not be reduced below 52 in any one week, unless the stores customarily maintain a shorter week. In the latter case they were not to reduce their hours at all.

"It is evident that the longer a store remains open each week at the shorter number of hours each employee works, the greater will be the number who will be employed," Johnson said.

Da'ly Digest

consumption and this importation of raw materials of manufacture itself invites exports. If our domestic commerce increases, our foreign commerce will increase, notwithstanding tariffs, quotas or anything else that the delegates to the London international conference have been talking about without agreement or action.

"The fact that industry wanted more raw materials may be the bright spot in the foreign trade figures for June," according to the WALL STREET JOURNAL, which suggests that the chief matter of interest in the report is "the novelty of import balances, of which this country has seen but few." That paper concludes: "On the face of the figures of values as given it does not seem as though currency depreciation has been a great stimulant to our export trade. Perhaps it has not had time to effect a great change, but as to a month in which imports show quite an appreciable increase in value one might ask if the United States is a better market in which to sell than it is to buy. It is true that since the first of May there has been a marked increase in the volume of cotton exports and at higher prices in American currency. This increase would more than account for the gain in total of exports over those of June, 1932, and still leave unanswered the question as to whether currency depreciation accompanied by a price rise here will stimulate our export trade. Then there is the question of an increase in imports. Theoretically they should have been less.

But instead of that they were $15,000,000 larger than in May and $10,000,000 larger than in June, 1932. How is it that facts can run so contrary to theory? The only explanation that will explain is that consumers were in need of certain raw materials and found it profitable to import them."

The tendency for the currency change to "increase exports and diminish imports," is recognized by the CINCINNATI TIMES STAR, with the explanation as to other factors: "While the dollar was declining on foreign exchange, prices were rising in the United States. Many raw material prices soared above the amount of currency depreciation, carrying up with them the production costs of goods intended for export. At the same time a world rise in raw material prices was in process, which further swelled the dollar value of such raw materials as had to be imported. In addition to these forces working against the supposedly benefited exporter, must be considered an increase in labor costs bound to follow the operation of the national recovery act. Producers for the domestic market may be amply protected by agreements, but the exporter must compete in a world market oblivious of the new deal."

Observing gains in the American trade with the Far East in the month of May, the PASADENA STAR-NEWS offers the judgment: "Imports advanced 5.2 per cent and exports went up 17 per cent. Much of the goods exported consisted of iron, steel, mineral oils, trucks and raw cotton. Pacific coast shipping points cannot overlook the great promise which these figures provide."

Swamp Is Hunted For Slain Woman, Dog Finds Arm

Swamps Near Abington, Pa., Will Be Combed For Victim Of Alleged Slaying

(International News Service)
ABINGTON, Pa., Aug. 10.—The dismembered left arm of a young woman and the story told by a domestic of screams she heard in the dark of the night spurred searchers today as they scoured seventy acres of swamp and waste land today for the body of the victim, believed to have been slain. A dog, foraging through thickets, dragged the gruesome find onto the lawn of the home of Walter Brown on Butler Pike. Portions of flesh adhered to the arm.

Physicians at the Abington hospital said the forearm was from the body of a young woman about 25 years of age who had been dead about three months. Several weeks ago a maid in the Brown home told of hearing a woman's screams in the swamplands near where the bones were found yesterday.

ASAPH BOYS WIN TROUT RUN GAME

Foresters Play Each Other,
Visit For Day; Campers Visit Homes

By DON LANIGAN
(Special To The News)

CAMP NO. 92, CIVILIAN CON-SERVATION CORPS, ASAPH, PA.,
Aug. 10.—Journeying 62 miles to Camp Lowell Thomas, not far from Williamsport, the Camp Asaph ball team this week defeated the highly touted Trout Run team by a 14-8 score. In the seventh inning the count was 8-2 in Trout Run's favor.

Asaph's boys rallied in the eighth to tie the score with six runs and then scored six more in the ninth to break the deadlock and win the game.

New Castle boys who played well
for the Asaph team were Kelliher, Chill, Mitchell and Porter, having extra base hits. Craig and West shared pitching honors.

L. Ostrosky, pitching for the Trout Run boys, performed well until he was relieved by a Scranton player. "Bub" Jones, Farrone and Melder were the best batters for the team from Trout Run.

Camp Asaph Sidelights
Carl Alfathier, the letter carrier
here, has been nicknamed "Leather lungs" because his voice is so loud that the echo coming back from the mountains a day later disappoints
some of the boys who received mail
the day before.

The following boys spent the last week-end at camp, returning to camp on Monday: Ray Hammond, Floyd Shutt, Doc Palmer, Joe Bum-
bullicy, Benny Langdon, James Taylor and Louis Morris.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and snaky and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels.
Gas builds up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul.
Your skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing
when it comes to making the bile flow freely.
But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resists substitute. 25c at drug stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

Almost everyone has a navy blue sheer dress this summer, but Patricia Ellis, smart young movie

and gloves all to match her navy blue organdie. Her stitched crepe belt adds a gay note, as it's bright red.

Miner Is Fatally Crushed By Slate

(International News Service)
GREENSBURG, Pa., Aug. 10.— Funeral arrangements were being completed here today for Joseph Malerik, 60, Breckville miner,
crushed beneath a fall of slate.

Death was due to internal injuries. Malerik had been without work for two years and had been working three days when the tragedy occurred.

CAT AND SPARROW ARE FAST FRIENDS

(International News Service)
SAN FRANCISCO—Mickey, a Persian cat owned by Mrs. Edward Mulligan, has nothing but vegetarian instincts when around Billy, an English sparrow. They have become fast friends in the three weeks since the sparrow, which had been injured, joined the household.
The sparrow often perches on the cat's head, the owner said.

COMPANY UNION STORM CENTER OF CONTROVERSY

interests, professed confidence that Hugh S. Johnson, NRA administrator, would yield to its demands.

Donald R. Richberg, general counsel for the NRA, declared, however,
that the company union proposal
would be thrown out of the Appalachian and Northern code.

Pennsylvania state officials demanded the abolition of company
stores and company police.

The recalcitrant attitude of the Appalachian and Northern Operators' Associations presented the major stumbling block to approval of a coal code satisfactory alike to other operators and to John L.
Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America.

Other Differences.
Although differences existed between Lewis and some of the mine owners outside of the Mellon-Morgan sphere of influence, they were not regarded as insurmountable or,
indeed, serious.

Opinion was divided on the question of a national code for the entire industry or a series of five or six regional codes. The Rocky Mountain and Pacific mine owners, representing the entire output in six states, insisted that for geographical reasons they should be governed by a code of their own. This view found favor among a majority of the mine owners.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 10.—Threat
of an appeal direct to President Roosevelt in their campaign to abolish the company town in Pennsylvania's bituminous coal fields in the event the coal code, was made today
by the Pittsburgh committee representing social civic and religious groups.

Members of the committee returned here today after attending the coal code hearings in Washington
yesterday at which county Judge M.
A. Musmanno was one of the witnesses in behalf of the group.

In addition to asking elimination of company towns, the committee is campaigning for abolition of the present system of "coal and iron"
police and special deputies. Abolition of company stores and cash
payment of wages to miners.

Normally Returning
Pennsylvania's coal strike areas
rapidly approached normalcy today
as the last remnants of strikers straggled back to work in mines that with but few exceptions, were free
of picketing and any signs of disorder.

Mines of the H. C. Frick Coke Co.
reported this morning a full run of approximately 8,000 men back at work, including Colonial No. 4 where yesterday miners refused to enter the pit after company officials rejected their check weighman.

With only one mine remaining idle, Monroeville No. 9 Pittsburgh Coal Company miners joined the parade
of returning workers this morning and reported at the shaft openings
7,500 strong. There were no signs of disorder, company spokesmen said, and picketing had ceased at all mines.

Coverdale Back
Following a vote taken by union miners at the Coverdale No. 8 mine of the Pittsburgh terminal coal company late yesterday, 2,000 men came back to work in the company's four Allegheny county mines.

Three mines of the Bethlehem mines company at Ben'sleyville however still lay idle with 1,500 men remaining on strike. Others of Washington county mines remaining out,
last to capitulate to the pressures
brought to bear by federal and union leaders, were Muse No. 3 of the National Mining Company, Vesta
Nos. 4, 5 and 6, at California, and several small operators scattered throughout the county.

Picketing was reported in but one instance, Muse No. 3 of the National Mining Company. H. C. Frick Coke Company subsidiary, was operating with the "usual number" of pickets, the captain of company police said there today.

STEEL TONNAGE Shows Decrease

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—Unfilled
tonnage of the United States Steel Corp. decreased 86,546 tons during July to a total of 2,020,125 tons, the monthly report of the corporation disclosed today.

tons on June 30, 1,929,815 on May 31, and 1,966,302 on July 31, 1932.

The report was a distinct disappointment to Wall Street and brought heavy profit-taking into the stock market.

U. S. Steel sold down to 54 1-8, off 1 point after getting as high as 55 1-2 in the early trading.

day evening from the family of their brother, Mr. and Mrs. Warren
Moore, and two children, of Mc-Keesport.

Mrs. Lottie C. Oesterling of Gardner had a visit last Sunday from the family of her sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. George Kreister, and their son,
Earl Oesterling, and Mrs. Oesterling and daughter Marilyn, all of Mil-vale.

Mr. and Mrs. Willard Kennedy

of Gardner are moving this week to Ellwood City, as Mr. Kennedy is employed there. They have rented their home here to Mr. and Mrs.
Marshall and two children, who are now living at the John Clapper property.

At the Sunday school at Gardner chapel Mrs. Brunton teaches the boys' class of Volunteers and Miss Malinda Walke teaches the girls'
class of King's Daughters, and next

Friday these two classes will have a party at Cascade Park and enjoy a picnic supper.

The sudden death of S. H. Norris was a great shock to Gardner residents, who held him in the highest esteem. Many relatives came from a distance to attend the funeral, among others Mr. and Mrs.
Edward Lee of Youngstown, uncle and aunt of Mr. Norris, aged 91 and 85 years. A sister of Mrs. Norris,

Mrs. Mollie Barnhart, of Ben Avon,
Pittsburgh, will remain at the Gar-

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—Kidnaping, blackmail or personal revenge were considered by police today as motives that led to the mysterious murder of Henry F. Sanborn, socially prominent railway executive. Sanborn's body, shot through the back, was found by berry pickers Saturday in a hastily scooped-out grave on Long Island three weeks after he suddenly disappeared from his New York office.

Police Silent
The nameless fright which had seized the staid, middle aged executive was so great he refrained telling authorities about it and violated the Sullivan law by purchasing the gun without a permit, detectives pointed out.

It was apparent police were withholding information they had uncovered in their investigation. They refused to confirm a report a man, said to have been a friend of Sanborn and whose name has not been revealed in the investigation to date, was being sought for questioning.

Depositors To Get Justice

No Injustice For Bank De-positors If Government
Can Help It

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Aug. 10.—There will be no injustice to depositors in the reorganization of closed banks in western Pennsylvania, if the federal government can help it.

Judge Sveinbjorn Johnson, special counsel for the U. S. comptroller of currency who is in Pittsburgh conferring with officials of closed banks, made this statement.

Judge Johnson said: "There will be no pressure brought to bear on depositors to subscribe for stock in new banks. We know there is a chance for unfairness there and we are watching it closely. I was in a closed bank myself once and I wanted my money."

Depends On Citizens.

It was explained, however, that this statement did not mean that larger depositors will not be asked to help in reorganization of closed banks. The old stockholders also will be called upon to subscribe for new stock, he said.

Johnson said the rapidly with which closed banks in this section reopen will depend upon citizens of communities with closed institutions. He was sent here to help conservators and delegations to depositors in forming reorganization plans.

Not Averse To Taking To Air
To Aid In Trailing
Bandits

State Trooper Paul Engle is not the only trooper who has gone in for aviation it having been learned that Jack Bradbury has also been soaring with the clouds.

Some months ago it was stated at the state police the troopers would not be averse to riding in a plane in order to trail bandits should they leave the city and take to the highways.

According to fliers it is no difficult task for a plane to follow any machine once it picks up its trail.

Both Engle and Bradbury are student fliers now but in time will probably win their licenses and in case of necessity can take to the air in pursuit of bandits.

Endorse Proposal Made By Oil Man

(International News Service)

OIL CITY, Pa., Aug. 10.—The Pennsylvania Grade Crude Oil Association endorsed a recently published proposal of Wirt Franklin, Oklahoma oil man, that the oil code include a cost recovery schedule, in a letter in the mails today to President Roosevelt.

The Franklin proposal suggested there be a special government office to decide production costs in the different fields and estimate manufacturing costs for petroleum products. Minimum sale prices for the various products would then be established by the federal agency.

"It is our conviction," the association said, "that a code which can legally fix the price for labor within a state also can fix legally the price for an essential national resource on which that labor is to be expended."

SHORT CUTS IN AGREEMENTS SPEEDING CODES

Policy Board Eases Terms

Hearings Launched In Four Industries Involving Hours And Labor

POLICING LEFT TO EACH GROUP

Johnson Delivers Ultimatum To Retail Stores To Observe Code Agreed To

(International News Service) WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—Liberalized agreements authorized by Hugh S. Johnson, national recovery administrator, are speeding the drive to enroll every business and industry under a code. Today, at the same time, the entire business world had before it a stern warning not to violate these easy agreements.

Formation of a policy board to recommend easements in the terms of the president's blanket code, so that firms might readily adapt their operations to conform to its aims, has drawn in numerous additional concerns.

Speedier Agreements It has become apparent that the administrator is subordinating proceedings on permanent codes in favor of speedier and less complicated modified agreements permitted under the president's blanket appeal.

This is seen in the case of the oil industry, as well as in lesser fields. With time growing short it is evident that everyone from the president down, is anxious to see every major phase of business and industry under some form of agreement which will produce maximum reemployment before winter.

While policing is left largely to each signatory group, there is definite indication that short shift awaits any such group taking advantage of the liberalized terms and "chiseling" on the benefits conferred by code authorizations.

Developments were: 1. Johnson delivered an ultimatum to retail stores to observe the presidential agreement recently concluded by their respective retail associations; not to shorten hours so as to avoid employing extra help, or to surround their blue eagle insignia.

2. The government sought a short cut in the oil controversy by offering a modified code covering only hours and wages, which have been unanimously approved, so that companies desiring to do so could sign this modified agreement, without waiting for settlement of the major issues.

Hearings Deferred These are involved in the composite code on which the industry is split, and on which hearings have been deferred. This virtually provides two codes for the oil industry—one a composite code covering fair trade practices now in dispute, and second, the present short agreement on wages and hours.

3. Hearings were launched on a quartet of widely varied codes, involving hours and wages of thousands of workers throughout the United States. These include the codes of the theatrical world, exclusive of the motion picture industry; the hosiery industry, knitting machinery, and underwear manufacturers, with affiliated groups.

Among those accepting the offer of modified agreements is the retail jewelry association which submitted such a code and has been informed of its approval. It becomes effective immediately.

It will govern the organization until a permanent code can be adopted. The present agreement provides that all except skilled craftsmen, such as engravers, shall work 40 hours, at minimum wages from $11 per week in smaller towns to $14 in cities of 500,000 and over. A differential of $1 between north and south is provided. Outside workers such as deliverymen, maintenance workers, and outside salesmen may be employed 48 hours per week, with overtime pay.

Modified Agreement Proposed codes were submitted by the optical industry, and hat manufacturers, on which hearings have been scheduled August 17, the optical industry already is operating under a modified agreement, and now proposes a 40 hour week except for seasonal employees, and minimums of 40 cents per hour for most workers, 32½ cents for a lesser number and 25 cents per hour for boys and messengers.

The optical code is expected to provide reemployment for between 750 and 1,000 workers, or virtually all those laid off since the slump. A ban on child labor, a 35 hour week for all except repair shop crews, other technical workers, supervisory and professional employees, is contained in the code for hat manufacturers. Machine operation also is limited to 35 hours per week.

Minimum wages are $21 per week for trimmers, packers, and lining makers, up to $35 for others. Minimum wages of 40 cents per hour for a 36 hour week for processing employees in laundry and dry-cleaning machinery manufacturing were announced in a code for that industry on which hearings will begin August 23.

Thirteen Years Of Enforcement Of Prohibition Law Ends At Midnight Wednesday

MANY THOUSANDS WILL LOSE JOBS

(International News Service) WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—Thirteen years of enforcement of the prohibition law by a separate bureau of the government came to an end today.

The prohibition bureau expired. Many felt that real enforcement of the Volstead Act went by the board at the same time.

An executive order created the division of investigation of the department of justice. This division absorbed the prohibition, investigation and identification bureaus.

Thirteen hundred employees of the prohibition bureau were furloughed July 1, while a considerable additional number will be dropped within a few days. It was expected that not more than 2,000 of the total personnel of 4,000 would be retained.

Half of those to remain in the justice department will be prohibition enforcement agents. Officials said that Attorney General Cummings would continue to direct his skeleton force of agents against the liquor traffic, but admitted that under the new lineup the government is powerless to cope with the illicit business. Even with the larger force the bootleggers piled a tremendous and profitable business. What they can do under the smaller force can be left to the imagination.

(International News Service) HAVANA, Aug. 10.—The statement of President Gerardo Machado, flatly rejecting suggestions he resign to clear the way for restoration of normal conditions in strife-torn Cuba, follows:

"I am, and will continue to be, the president of the Cuban Republic, with the plenitude of my constitutional prerogatives of which I cannot cede the smallest part without betraying the confidence deposited in me by the Cuban people by freely conceding their votes or without diminishing the independence and sovereignty of a republic I helped to found by struggling in the war of independence.

"The laborers have protested to me energetically against the perverse form in which the tumults of Monday were provoked by elements not connected with themselves.

Tumults Suppressed. "The tumults were suppressed rapidly by police without a shot having been fired by the army.

"I am disposed to deal with my political adversaries and to concede their just demands in all that does not detract from the prestige and authority of our institutions and of the chief of state.

"I am sending a message to congress recommending the immediate approval of the electoral reforms advised by Professor Howard Lee McBain of Columbia University.

"I trust that the people of the United States will understand that I am working for peace and order in Cuba and defending against revolution and anarchy the independence, sovereignty and institutions of a republic which that same people of the United States helped us so nobly to create."

Plan Development For Water Power

(International News Service) WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—The federal power commission, armed with $400,000 supplied by the public works administration, will speedily begin the preparation of a national plan of water power development, Chairman Frank McNinch announced Wednesday.

The investigation was ordered by the senate in approving a resolution of Senator Costigan (D-o f Colorado). "We welcome the opportunity for

Repaving Job To Be Completed Soon

Water Company Employees Putting In New Cushion, Relaying Brick

Employees of the New Castle Water company have not yet fully completed the repaving of Court street

further service and are prepared to tackle the job," said Chairman McNinch.

One of the chief aims of the inquiry will be to determine the cost of delivering power to various classes of consumers—industrial, commercial and individual.

The inquiry for the first time, federal power officials said, will disclose whether the factory owner, the house owner or the store owner is bearing the heaviest burden of power cost.

between Mulberry street and Dixon alley. Last fall a leak was discovered in a pipe. The water got beneath the brick interfering with the sand cushion and the water company is putting in a new cushion and relaying the brick, according to City Engineer Harry Hoskins. It is expected the job will be completed soon.

The older one gets the faster the time flies, and then it is, that he finds himself growing wiser and kinder in thought and deed.

The Governor Says

What Is Going On
In Harrisburg—
And Why

By GIFFORD PINCHOT
Governor of Pennsylvania

Recent disputes between dairy farmers and milk distributors have brought home to the people of Pennsylvania the necessity for an immediate stabilization of the dairy industry.

I am hopeful that the federal milk marketing agreements and codes which are now being formulated and reviewed will contain a working basis upon which our present milk marketing difficulties can be solved.

In the meantime we must have tolerance and patience. Everyone knows that the Pennsylvania farmer cannot get along with the disastrously low milk prices which have prevailed during most of the past six months. The farmer has got to have a decent return for his investment and labor.

The dealer or distributor is also entitled to a fair return for his time and money, and the consumer is entitled to fresh, pure milk at all times at a reasonable price.

The present disputes between certain groups of producers and certain groups of distributors cannot be settled by disorder, violence and bloodshed. The blocking of roads, the damaging of trucks and the pouring out of milk do no good to anybody.

But citizens are entitled to the enjoyment of the rights guaranteed them in the constitutions of Pennsylvania and the United States. There is no law against peaceful persuasion and action by individuals or groups in order to secure what they believe to be justice.

The dairy industry is rooted deep in the heart of human welfare in Pennsylvania. On our farms it brings in almost as much cash as all other enterprises combined. In our milk plants and on our milk wagons it provides employment for tens of thousands of our citizens. In our homes it gives the one most essential food to millions of our boys and girls upon whose health so much in the future depends.

Of all industries, that of producing and distributing milk to over 10,000,000 people in Pennsylvania is one which must not break down. Human life is at stake the moment there is serious interruption of the supply of milk. No farmer, no dealer, and no public official wants to be a party to any movement that jeopardizes the health and happiness of our children.

I firmly believe that all the effort that has been given to the milk marketing problem during recent months will not be in vain.

Water Accepted

Dr. William L. Steen, health officer for the city of New Castle, wears a smile due to the fact that the city continues in good health. There are no contagious cases on the city records.

To further combat the probability of typhoid the health officer had sanitary policemen post signs on wells and springs here which had been condemned in the past.

Hunt Kidnapers Of Urschel In Northern City

Oklahoma Oil Man

MARKED MONEY HAS APPEARED

(International News Service)

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Aug. 10.—Three men were under arrest and seizure of the kidnapers of Charles F. Urschel, multi-millionaire Oklahoma City oil man, was believed imminent today as federal operatives led an intensive search of Minneapolis and St. Paul underworld haunts.

Federal agents seized the trio when marked ransom money paid to the Urschel kidnapers appeared at two Minneapolis banks. The three men held incommunicado and under close guard are Charles Wolk, Sam Kronick and Sam Frederick.

Investigators said they were convinced that the three men were not the actual kidnapers. Their arrests however may lead to the gang's capture, federal agents said.

Urschel was kidnaped from his Oklahoma City home July 22 and was returned after a ransom reported to be in excess of $200,000 was paid by Mrs. Bernice Urschel.

ians' regular luncheon in The Castleton. Mr. Richards declared that "a man drawing a $1,500 salary yearly will soon find it much easier to own his own home."

Never was the Federal Home Loan system intended as an emergency relief measure, but similar to the Federal Reserve system plan, was created chiefly to wholesale money to member building and loan associations so that they in turn could loan money to finance home repairs, rehabilitation and create new home building work, the home loan officer said.

With Mr. Richards was Attorney Robert Cunningham, counsel for the Pittsburgh branch. Both spoke at a banquet of building and loan representatives at The Castleton Wednesday night.

Guests today included Attorney W. J. Baer, counsel here for the new Home Owners Loan corporation; L. Richards, Milwaukee; Harry Smith, Ellwood City; R. R. MacNab, St. Louis, and W. I. Mohr, Tiffin, O.

Excessive Damage Claims On Roads Not Countenanced

Roads Will Not Be Improved
Where Property Owners
Attempt Holdups

Lawrence county commissioners are in hearty sympathy with the announcement by Governor Pinchot that he will not stand for holdups on the part of property owners along new roads. He has directed that in all new projects now being undertaken, damage claims must be determined very largely where the roads are to be improved. Plans will be abandoned entirely at places where persistent efforts are made to force the payment of exorbitant claims for imaginary damages.

This does not mean that the property owners are expected to assume any actual loss by reason of road construction. A fair amount of damage will be paid. One of the difficult problems which Lawrence county has had to face in the past has been to determine what is a fair amount of damages.

Usually the property owner who is seeking damages has a lot of his friends and neighbors come to testify before the viewers. Naturally they are more friendly to the interests of their neighbor than to the county in fixing the amount which they believe their neighbor should receive. The county finds it hard to secure witnesses in such cases, as persons in the vicinity of the damaged person, do not like to be called as witnesses against their neighbor.

An effort was recently made to have the state assume all damage claims on improved roads, but this failed, so that it is now up to the different counties to pay claims. Governor Pinchot says that the value of property is raised in most cases by the building of a road, but the property owner is not asked to pay for the enhanced value. "It is only fair," therefore, he says, "to ask that property owners waive minor claims for damages."

Rains Bring Hope For Better Crops

Corn And Potatoes, As Well As Garden Truck, Benefitted
By Recent Rains

Brighter prospects for farm crops this fall are assured as a result of the recent rains. Corn and late potatoes have been especially benefitted. In most fields, corn was just beginning to ear, and the rains have come at a very opportune time to assist. Potato vines which were drying up on account of the protracted drought have taken on new life. Some patches, however, were too far gone to be greatly benefitted, but there will be a decidedly better yield in the late patches.

Apples, peaches and plums, will be greatly benefitted, as well as the numerous gardens about the city and throughout the county. Many amateur gardeners have been very much discouraged, and feared that they would have little or nothing for their work, but the outlook is now very much improved, and it is believed that there will be a fair crop of tomatoes, beets, carrots, turnips, and other garden truck. The drought which ended recently has been one of the most severe ever experienced by the county.

Originally the word museum signified a grove or place sacred to the Muses, who in ancient mythology were the nine goddesses who presided over song, poetry and the arts and sciences.

CARDINALS ARE SLIPPING AGAIN

By LES CONKLIN
International News Service
Sports Writer
NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—The pennant prospects of the Senators, Cubs and Braves were enhanced as the big league races passed another milestone today, while the fortunes of the Yankees and Cardinals dwindled.

In the American League race Washington struck a vital blow at the hopes of the Yankees yesterday by taking the final game of the series, 4 to 1, making it 11 victories in 18 starts against the New York Yankees. The Nats' feat in winning the last two games of the set after the Yankees had captured both ends of a twin bill Monday gives them a healthy three-game lead and a tremendous psychological advantage. The Yankees took to the road today and will not return home for three weeks. Except for Sunday's game at the Capital, they will not get another crack at Washington until the final three days of the season at Yankee Stadium.

Cubs Climbing
In the National League the Cardinals, after winning six straight for their new manager, Frank Frisch, have lost six of their last seven starts and are back in the second division. Meanwhile the Cubs have captured six out of seven and are only half a game behind the second-place Pirates, with whom they start a three-game series in Pittsburgh today.

Washington will have the added advantage of Professor Monte Weaver's services for the stretch drive. Weaver, who won 22 games last year, was injured early this season until he tested Lefty Gomez in yesterday's duel. Each team made seven hits but the Nats bunched theirs while the Yankees had the misfortune to drive four screaming liners straight into the hands of Washington fielders. Gomez helped lose his own game with a wild throw in the fifth inning. Kuhel following with a hit that drove in two runs.

In outslugging the Cardinals, 10 to 7, the Cubs gave a merry greeting to their former playmate, Burt Grimes. He got only one man out in the first inning, the Bruins scoring five runs climaxed by Babe Herman's homer with two aboard. Bill Jurges also starred with a homer, triple and double while Orsatti made four hits for St. Louis. Tinning and Warneke pitched for the winners.

Braves Advance
The Braves made it seven wins out of nine starts in their home state and took fourth place away from St. Louis by nailing out the Phillies, 3 to 2. Ben Cantwell bunt up his 15th triumph for Boston and sent in the winning run with a squeeze bunt off Flint Rhem. Whitener's homer gave the Braves their other runs.

Another Boston pitcher, Lloyd Brown, helped win his own game by whacking a homer and two singles as the Red Sox downed the A's, 8 to 4. The Sox put the game on ice by scoring six runs in the first inning on the hits combined with errors by Higgins and Coleman and four walks and a wild pitch by Dick Oliver. The A's sandlot pitcher.

Universals Win From Pirates, 2-1

Fred Shaffer Pitches Fine Game; Allow Two Hits

NICK BIONDI GETS HOME RUN

Approximately 5,000 fans watched Fred Shaffer, a 17 year old youth, hurl the New Castle Universals to a 2-1 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates of the National League at Centennial Field, Wednesday evening. The exhibition contest was played in the record time of one hour.

The only two Pirates players to hit safely were Gus Suhr who tripled to center in the second inning. Riggins who replaced Suhr doubled to right field in the eighth frame for the second safe hit of the game. Had there not been several hundred youngsters crowded in right field, Nick Biondi would have easily caught the pop fly. Young Shaffer pitched like a big leaguer.

Biondi Stars
Nick Biondi, New Castle's right fielder was the outstanding star of the contest. In the second inning Biondi hammered one of Harry's curves to center for a two bagger and scored later on Green's single. In the fifth inning Biondi socked the apple to center field for a homer which proved the winning run. The New Castle boys played beautifully all throughout.

Manager Gibson used his first string lineup during the first half of the game and then sent the second team in the game. The Pirates who are one of the best combinations in the National League lived up to their reputation, playing errorless ball. Shaffer, who hails from Volant was watched with interest by several of the Pirates scouts. After the game the Pirates' officials stated that they were pleased with the showing the local hurler made. They said that with more experience the local pitcher should develop into a potential hurler. Suhr and Finney were struck out by Shaffer. The game was fast and proved interesting. In the ninth inning Honus Wagner, one of the best baseball players of all batted and grounded out.

Swimming Marks Broken At Erie

(International News Service)
ERIE, Pa., Aug. 10.—A new swim record was in the books today representing the fast time in which Mary Suchy, Pittsburgh mermaid, negotiated the 220-yard breast stroke event during the A. M. A. water championships held at Presque Isle State Park here.

Miss Suchy's time was 3:37.7 and shattered a mark she set in a previous meet. Lenore Kight, Olympic star competing for Homestead Library, easily outdistanced all rivals in the 880-yard senior A. M. A. race to win the only feature in which she participated. Although Pittsburgh district swimmers won all six of the A. M. A. events, Richard Smith of Erie Academy high jumped off with the National Junior A. A. U. one-mile free style title in the fast time of 25:00.8.

GOLF FACTS NOT THEORIES!

By ALEX. J. MORRISON
Central Press Association
RIGHT WRONG
PRACTICE OF CLOSING CLUB FACE WILL EVENTUALLY RUIN ANY PLAYER'S GAME

ALEX MORRISON says:
A player should never do anything about his swing that might cause him to strike the ball with a closed face—that is with the face of his clubhead turned forward of its natural position. Such a position of the clubface at the moment of impact cannot possibly afford a truly successful shot.
Every effort should be made to strike the ball with the clubface in a natural or an open position, then all of the force of the swing will be projected into the flight of the ball.
Closing the clubface in addressing the ball positively encourages a similar position of the clubface at the moment of impact.
This practice may make you feel that you're getting better results for a while, but in time it'll ruin your game.

BLIND BOGEY IS STAGED DURING DAY

In connection with the Consistory golf tournament was staged at the Municipal Golf course, a short distance from the city, a blind bogey, or kicker's handicap being the featured event of the day.

Those who picked the right handicap, were Dave Aston, C. W. Fleming, Myron Rice, Dr. W. D. Cleland, Welly O. Rugh, and Sam Lewis, of New Castle; and Joseph Gary, of Enon Valley. The number was 41. Each of these were awarded two golf balls each, while the others winning one apiece were Capt. V. Arthur Smith, New Castle; George Swankie and Cecil Phillips, of Sharon, with net scores of 40; and R. C. Melvin, H. W. Lightner, and Robert C. Love of this city, with 42.

The winners in the ladies golf event were Mrs. F. H. Eidenbaugh, Mrs. Dave Aston, Mrs. Gomery Emery, and Mrs. John E. Elliott.

These may be procured from John E. Elliott, chairman of the golf committee at Elliott and Waddingtons.

at Meeting In City Building Last Night

ELLWOOD CITY, Aug. 10.—Ellwood City borough council held its regular meeting last night in the city building, one day ahead of schedule because of the community picnic today.

After hearing a petition of residents in the vicinity of South Second street against the dumping of ashes on vacant lots there by the Ellwood Foundry & Machine company, council decided that they had no jurisdiction over such a matter since the petitioners were not the property owners and that no complaint had been received from the same. According to information received from the company, it is making a private parking ground near its shops. The petition was received and placed on file.

Grant Another Loan.
 Council once again came to the aid of the school district last night when it authorized a loan of $2,000 so that the school district can meet its next payroll. The request, through Secretary G. Blaine Hancher, who stated that the $20,000 recently borrowed from council would be repaid sooner than expected since the state has sent official notification that the district's bond issue has been approved and the money will soon be on its way.

G. H. Morrison, chairman of the finance committee of council, pointed out that council would be able to accede with this request and recommended that it do so, since repayment is practically guaranteed. The secretary was authorized to draw up the warrants for the loan, which will be needed before the 15th of the month.

Other Business.
 Upon motion of Councilman Morrison, it was decided to allow the rules and regulations committee to have complete power over the matter of purchasing automobile insurance for borough vehicles.

Tax collector Mervin Cunningham's bond for $10,000 was officially approved by council at this time. It had already been approved by the borough solicitor, J. W. Humphrey.

Secretary E. B. Meyer, former tax collector, announced that the delinquent tax collections for the past month were $11,652.92 for borough and $2,802 for school.

There were three fires in the borough for the past month, according to the report of Fire Chief H. T. Plante. Damage at one amounted to $50. For their services firemen received $57.

The monthly police report showed that there were ten arrests made of which three were discharged, two fined. Total fines and forfeits yielded $21.

There were 11 cases of whooping cough and one of tuberculosis for the past month, according to the report of the health officer.

Nagel Reunion Held Wednesday
 ELLWOOD CITY, Aug. 10.—Ideal weather which followed the cooling showers of Tuesday evening was an important factor in making the annual reunion of the descendants of Elizabeth Fry and Andrew Nagel, held yesterday at Camp Con-E-Que, a decided success.

All the delicacies the season affords graced the prettily decorated tables in the grove and left nothing to be desired in the culinary art.

A varied program of sports was next in order directed by Miss Lillian Nevins and Mrs. Carl Young. Desirable prizes were awarded the lucky contestants. Horseshoe pitching and swimming were enjoyed by others throughout the day.

John E. Nagel of Frisco was elected to serve as president for the coming year. Other officers elected included: Vice president, George W. Nagel of Ellwood; secretary, Miss Lillian Nevins of Lillyville, and treasurer, R. A. Nagel of New Galilee.

The reunion will be held the second Wednesday of August in 1934 at the same place.

Seventy-five relatives and friends attended from New Castle, Butler, Beaver, Ellwood City and other surrounding towns.

BORO EMPLOYEES
GET SALARY RAISEOrdinance Establishing The Rates Of Salaries Passed
On First ReadingIs In Keeping With NRA Movement; Schedule To Mean 15 Per Cent Raise

ELLWOOD CITY, Aug. 30.—The next salaries of all borough employees will be enlarged to a satisfactory extent, according to an action taken by the Ellwood City Borough Council at their regular meeting last night in the city building.

An ordinance presented by the Finance Committee of Council, which is headed by G. H. Morrison establishing a salary schedule for all borough employees, which means a raise of 15 per cent for salaried persons and 40 cents an hour as the minimum for laborers. This is in keeping with the NRA movement.

Upon motion of Councilman M. A. Riley it was decided to suspend the rules of council and pass the ordinance on the first and final reading. There was some discussion as to what the salary of the janitor in the city building was to be. Councilman Thos. D. Rocco, Alex. Main, John Tillia, and William McGinley and Burgess Judd C. Turner were of the opinion that the janitor should get the same salary as he was getting before his 45 per cent cut which was not in proportion with other clerks at an earlier time. This opinion was put into motion by Councilman Main and passed by a 4-3 vote, Councilmen Morrison, M. A. Riley and President J. E. Powell voting against it. Three other councilmen were absent from the meeting.

The complete salary schedule and its own revision is as follows:
 Burgess $100 per month
 Borough solicitor $483.86 per year with reasonable compensation for court work and 5 per cent for municipal liens.
 Borough treasurer $30.80 per month
 Borough electrician $226.54 per month

Wiley-Lewis Nuptials Monday
 ELLWOOD CITY, Aug. 10.—A wedding of interest to many in this vicinity was solemnized Monday afternoon, August 7, at 4 o'clock when Miss Hazel Wiley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Wiley of Rockdale, became the bride of Dale Lewis, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Lewis of Wurttemberg. The wedding ceremony was performed at the home of Rev. Ivan J. Howland at New Cumberland, W. Va.

The bride was charmingly attired in a pretty ensemble of white silk crepe with matching accessories. The couple was attended by Mrs. Elizabeth Fry of Wurttemberg.

Thursday evening a group of friends and neighbors assembled at the Wiley home and tendered the happy couple a surprise serenade and shower. Mr. and Mrs. Lewis responded in a pleasing manner and after generously treating the merry-makers invited them into the home where games and music were the pastimes until a late hour.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis plan to reside at Wurttemberg.

Crowds Gather To See Laying Of Cornerstone
 ELLWOOD CITY, Aug. 10.—Ellwood City professional and business men "closed shop" at 10 o'clock this morning, and by 11:30 practically the entire city population and hundreds of people from outlying districts had gathered at the corner of Seventh street and Crescent avenue to witness the laying of the cornerstone to the new postoffice.

Ellwood City's most prominent business men and city officials were assembled to take part in the ceremony. Present also was Mayor Charles B. Mayne, of New Castle, with members of the New Castle city council.

The cornerstone laying was planned as the principal feature of Ellwood City's first community picnic day. The rainy weather did not seem to slacken the interest in the ceremony.

School Reunion
Held Yesterday

ELLWOOD CITY, Aug. 10.—"School Days, School Days, Dear Old Golden Rule Days" was the theme song of former pupils and teachers who attended the reunion of the Red Brush and Scheiwer schools located near Scotts Ridge yesterday. The affair was held in the orchard of the Calvin Belles farm.

The ringing of the old school bell at noon was welcomed by doctors, lawyers, ministers, farmers and many others who returned to visit the little one-roomed schoolhouse and haunts of their childhood and youth. A tinge of sadness was mingled with their joy of reunion with former schoolmates as they thought of the loved and well-remembered playmates who had gone on.

A well prepared picnic dinner, for which this section is well known, served by the ladies of this district, was no exception.

Addresses were given by Rev. Gettman of Harmony and Rev. Scott Brenner of Schwenkville, both former pupils of the schools. Reminiscences were exchanged by many of the older visitors while outdoor sports attracted the attention of the younger pupils. A well prepared and worthwhile program of music and recitations was presented in the afternoon.

Rev. Gettman was re-elected to serve as president for the coming year as was Mrs. Paul Pfeffer of Harmony as secretary and John Scheiwer of Middle Lancaster as treasurer. The reunion will be held again in 1934 at the same place.

Council To Stop
Rail RemovalAction Is Taken As Result Of
Strike Of Relief
Workers Here

ELLWOOD CITY, Aug. 10.—Due to the refusal of relief workers in the city to work any longer without financial compensation, borough council of Ellwood City voted last night at their regular meeting in the city building, to suspend the work of removing of the old Harmony rails from Lawrence avenue, until a time when the city is better able to take care of it.

The men who had been working on the local streets for their food orders had a strike this week and refused to work unless they were given financial compensation. The work on West Lawrence avenue has been stopped. The alleged strike leader, Robert Glass claims that local needy people are entitled to relief from the state whether they work for it or not. Therefore there was no need of the local men to work any longer without compensation.

Burgess Judd C. Turner confirmed Glass's statement in regards to relief. He pointed out to council that many people were being given relief in the coal strike area by the state, without doing any work for it. The street committee was authorized to finish the work started, then suspend for a period.

Legal Barriers For Home Loans Being Removed

Federal Government Now Ready To Help Distressed Home Owners With Financing

APPLICATIONS ARE PILING IN FAST

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Aug. 10.—All legal barriers to the granting of loans to home owners by the federal government have been removed, it was learned here.

The first local loan will be made as soon as examinations of titles can be completed.

Hundreds have applied to the local offices for aid daily. J. S. Baughman, manager of the Pittsburgh office, reported.

Legal forms required in making loans will be distributed here and in other state offices before the end of the week, Baughman said. Interim certificates to be exchanged later for Home Owners Loan corporation bonds will also be available by that time.

Bonds Printed.
Certificates are in denominations of $50, $100, $500, $1,000 and $5,000. Bonds which will replace them are being printed at the bureau of printing and engraving at Washington. They will be ready in about three weeks.

A large number of mortgage holders have already indicated their willingness to accept the bonds in place of their mortgage.

One feature which will stabilize bond values is that they may be used by the debtor in paying off the face of his mortgage obligation to the government.
